

Ballroom Dancing - Logic Puzzle

Once a year, a ballroom dancing extravaganza at the local country club is the social event of the season. Each of three distinguished pairs stole the spotlight in a different dance, earning them not only the admiration of all those present but also a romantic dinner for two at the club on an evening of their choice. From this information and the following clues, for each couple, can you determine their surname, the dance in which they excelled and the event they chose to celebrate at their romantic dinner?

1. The romantic dinner for two to celebrate the lady's birthday wasn't enjoyed by the Kavanaughs.
2. Phyllis's surname is Moylan.
3. Bradley isn't the man who danced the Mambo with his wife.
4. Neither Phyllis nor Audrey is the woman who danced the jitterbug with Mr Levy nor the one whose romantic dinner for two celebrated the first anniversary.
