

Luck of the Livinhopes - Logic Puzzle

The Livinhopes - dad Tom, mum Millie, sons Dick and Harry, and daughter Sally - were enjoying their holiday on the beautiful island of Trop Icana and their outing today was at the Happy Valley race-meeting where each placed a different bet to win on the Golden Cup feature race, and their thoroughbreds - in no particular order: Abiella's Ace, Rory's Gold, Beau Royale, Artie's Son, and Big Ben Chimes - were the first five to pass the winning post. Unfortunately, the bookmakers paid out on the first three only. One of the family had bet on the basis of a possibly clairvoyant dream, another selected the horse that turned and gave a wink while strolling out to the gate. One of the family had simply bought a tip sheet and backed the recommendation du jour, and one had eavesdropped on a tip passed between a couple of stable insiders and bet accordingly. Finally, one of them simply bet on the red silks on the basis of it being a favorite color. From this information and the following clues, for each Livinhope, can you determine which horse they backed, on which basis and the position in which the horse finished?

1. The horse signified in the dream came in following Dick's pick, but it beat out Beau Royale.
2. Artie's Son finished behind the horse favored by the tip sheet, which straggled behind Sally's selection.
3. Neither Rory's Gold nor Dick's horse could wink.
4. Millie's horse finished in front of the contender that was picked for the red silks and both finished ahead of Big Ben Chimes.
